

TODAY'S INSIGHTS FOR TOMORROW'S ECONOMY.

SHORT BIO

Evan Lucas is one of Australia's most trusted voices on economic behaviour. With two decades of experience Evan blends economic insight with behavioural and demographic trends to help people make smarter financial decisions today.

A regular media commentator, keynote speaker and host of the podcast Exchanges, he is known for translating complexity into clarity and challenging audiences to think beyond the headlines and prepare for our economic futures.

MEDIUM BIO

Evan Lucas is one of Australia's most trusted voices on financial markets and economic behaviour. As an Economic Futurist, Evan blends deep economic insight, demographic knowledge with behavioural science to explain what financial decisions are needed today for the economic future we are facing.

A seasoned commentator, keynote speaker, and media contributor, Evan doesn't just explain the headlines, he translates complexity into clarity. Whether on stage, in the studio, or on the podcast Exchanges, he challenges audiences to think beyond the cycle and prepare for what's next.

Backed by two decades of global experience across finance, economics and media, Evan is known for making economics not only accessible but actionable.

LONGER BIO

Evan Lucas is an Economic Futurist and one of Australia's most trusted and recognisable voices on financial markets and economic behaviour. He brings together expertise in global finance, macroeconomics, demographics and behavioural science to explain the shifts shaping our economic future and the decisions that matter most today.

Over a career spanning two decades, Evan has worked across institutional finance, wealth management, economic research and broadcasting. His sharp commentary and engaging delivery have made him a familiar presence across television, radio, print and digital platforms. He is also the host of Exchanges, a podcast that explores the human side of economics through candid conversations with leading voices.

Evan is regularly called on by businesses, governments and the media to provide insight into everything from interest rates and inflation to generational money patterns and the psychology of spending. He's known for making economics not only accessible but actionable, translating complexity into clarity and helping individuals and organisations think beyond the headlines.

Whether on stage, in the studio or in the boardroom, Evan challenges conventional thinking and equips audiences to navigate the future with confidence.